W. P. WALTON.

THERE has been considerable talk in his part of the State in regard to the fact that Prof. H. K. Taylor, candidate for superintendent of public instruction, did not vote for Cieveland, but cast his ballot for St John. Writing to us about it, the Profeesor says that be did vote for the prohibition candidate for President, although he voted for the rest of the democratic ticket entire, remarking at the time, "I do not care a cent for St. John and do not believe in temperance as a political question, but, es I can vote upon a purely moral question and not injure the interest of my party in were killed, and one of Churchill's sone this overwhelming democratic State, I be mortally wounded. lieve I will vote for temperance" With has always voted the straight democratic fought over the ignation of the county seat ticket and he challenges anyhody to pro cf Wichits county. duce a sounder record than his.

It is passing strange that the men who hold the highest positions in religious circies and are trusted and apparently exemplary members of society, should be the ones oftener than otherwise to turn out thieves and ewindlers. Cashier King, of the Cynthiana bank, was a Sunday echool teacher, a deacon in the Baptist Church of that place and had acted in the capacity of moderator at the general meeting or Association of that eect in that county for a number of years, was a member of the achool board and member of the city couneil eeveral times. One thing can be said in Mr. King's favor, however, he did not step off to Canada when detection was inevitsble, but like Judas of old, he went and tilled himself as euch men ought always to do.

JOSH SMITH, as the Richmond Register cails Falcon, has been proved a falsifier of the record by eayingto Goy. The report awakthe neighboring village was aroused by the

A man without known enemies and withal a true christian gentleman, those who did not know the true inwardness of the family affairs, were at a lose even for a snapicion as to the guilty fiend, but it soon began to be whispered around that the oldest son of the dead man had been known to ntter bitter thrants against his father and that their relations had been unpleasant for come time. This boy, Wallace, a youth Higgine'. of 19, who lived eince last fall with a Mr. Brown on hia; father's farm in Casey, was sent for and found about 3 o'clock in hed. at Mr. Brown's. He was awakened, apparently with great difficulty, but finally opened his eyes and inquired, hefore anything was said about him, "Is father dead yet?" He rode down to the !homestead, where his actions were such as to increase the airestly formed enepicion against him.

A NEGRO ARRESTED AND RELEASED

in the meanwhile a negro, who called at another negro's shortly after the shot and made some remark about it, was arrested, but subsequently released, as there was no evidence against him, and the tracks left hy the one who did the shooting were much squailer than his. Snow Sibles and Their Destructiveness. Length of Time the Snow on the Mountains is Supposed to Last-Frost Never Out of the Granuil.

"How often is the snow renewed on the tops of the mountains in Colorado Po asked a reporter of a pioneer Coloradoan, Mr. William N. Byers, who has observed the face of nature in the Rockies for many years.

"Weil," said he, "that is a gigantic question which Hayden asked himself years ago, but utterly failed to answer. Some persons think the snow is renewed on the mountains here every two years, but I doubt It greatly, and after all it is a matter of the merest conjecture. We can only use our powers of observation and draw our inforences from the most practical reasons at tand. You have heard, of course, that the main difference existing between our mountains and those of the old world lies in the fact that there glaciers abound, whereas we are free from those terrible anathemas of ice and snow.

"But there are plentiful traces of glacial action at the head of the Arkansas river, and about Lake creek, in the neighborhood of Twin lakes, and on both sides of the Arkansas valley. These traces are a remarkable feature of the tocks. They are called meraines. The rocks are accred in places along the foot of the mountains, and the pushing out of moraines into the Arkansas is observed.

"Another remarkable lustance is seen in the region of Grant lake, in Middle park, in the scoring of the rocks in the terminal and laterat moraines. Nearly all these lakes are the result of glacial action. In every ravine in the glacial period there were rivers of ice. As the ravines unite the ice rivers accumulate moraines. NATURE'S OWN SNOW PLOW. "This is like a piow with a double share turning a furrow both right and left. The effect on the unbroken rock is to scour and polish it, and to score it into grooves, aweeping everything movable before it, depositing all this moving matter at its aides and directly in front. When the giacial period ended and the temperature of this part of the earth changed it left these rivers of ice projecling down into the plains at the mouth of the gorge, penetrating the surface of the earth to more or tess depth, and running through until they gradually melted away. Thus were formed most of our mountain lakes, such as Twin, Grand and Black. I once counted from the summit of Long's

The ground is frozen, The frost never comes out of the ground. When we ilig there we always find the earth frozen. It may be that the snow gradually melts away, but as t said before, nobody knows anything about it positively. It is a mere matter of conjecture. There are places in the mountains where I don't think the spot where timber grews that snow doesn't melt. If the snew had not melted the tim-

"It is estimated," said State Engineer Nettieton to the reporter later, "that sixty inches the Rocky mountains in the form of snow and rain; 80 per cent. of this fails during the winter and spring months. That which falls late in the autumn and early in the winter is most available for irrigation, as it becomes solid, almost like ice, and meits slowiy under the summer's sun, affording a steady through the irrigating season. Snows falling in late spring melt rapidly, and the waters run down the rivers unused. Aithough nearly ali disappears every season, small quantities remaining only in patches here and there. On this account there are at present no glaciers in the Rocky mountains. The cold mountains comlense the moisture in the country adjacent, thereby robbing the plains
